TOWN OF WEYMOUTH.

THE ANNUAL MARCH MEETING.

Mr. Terry said that it was sophistry to argue that we should have better roads with more money. Much of the labor put on the roads last year was a positive damage to them.

The motion to appropriate $12,000 was put and carried—the money to be placed as last year.

Mr. Baker made motion that the Selectmen be instructed not to exceed the $12,000. A. J. Richards was willing to confine himself as far as the appropriation is exceeded it is only because it is necessary, arising from peculiar circumstances, which he explained at some length. George W. White moved to lay the whole matter of instructing the Selectmen not to exceed the appropriation, on the table, and this was voted.

In the action on Article 7, concerning the Fire Department, $650 was voted for hose carriage for the Steamer, $100 for new hose, $1000 for miscellaneous—total $2750.

Article 8 referred to a new engine house in Ward 5. Z. L. Bicknell said that the Engineers considered it inexpedient to lay out money on the present building. Last year they were directed to purchase a lot, but by vote would not pay over $800 for it. Since the report was printed they had purchased at that price a lot near Music Hall—one of the most desirable lots in South Weymouth. The building would cost about $2200, and it would be necessary to have the building a little larger and wider than the other house. He moved an appropriation of $200 for the new engine house, which motion was amended by Mr. A. Raymond Jr., who wanted $2500, so that the house might be built in right manner and also be an ornament to the village.

Noah Vining said this expenditure would be completed by the equipment of our Fire Department. A little larger house was needed, but he thought it could be built for $2200.

A motion was then made by Engineer Bicknell, (other motion being withdrawn) to appropriate $3000, to cover cost of land and house, and the motion was carried.

It was also voted that the Engineers be a building committee for the new engine house.

A vote was passed, under Art. 10, to release Treasurer White from the liability of a deposit of money with Bates & Albee, who had failed. The action was unanimous, as the custom of depositing with that firm had been established before Mr. White came into office, and the release would be an act of justice to him.

The Jury List was presented under Article 11, and the names of C. C. Blanchard, Adoram Clapp, Sam'l N. Bates, Auburn H. Sterling, and I. H. Wilde were stricken out, the name of John Sullivan, of Ward 5, being added, and the list was accepted.

$5000 was appropriated, under Art. 12, for State Aid.

It was moved to take up Article 42, relating to water, which was carried, and this action resulted in a protracted debate, but as no legal action could be had on the subject of the article at that time, the hour spent in discussing it might have been better improved. A final motion that the town do not take the water, was carried.

The 43d Article was also a water question, relating to granting right to stock company to take the water, and no motion of Selectman Baker, it was voted that the town is willing that a corporation should take the water at their own expense.

The Committee on counting ballots for town officers presented their report, as follows:

Improvement.

Mr. E. S. Pratt, formerly of Weymouth, and now of the Pratt Improved Shoe Co. of Chicago, has effected an improvement in the making of boots and shoes which it is said will work a complete revolution in the trade. The new method is to turn the edge of the upper outward, cover with a welt, and with a single seam then stitch welt and upper to the outer sole, thus obviating half the labor and giving a much stronger seam as the union of all the parts is perfect and direct. This method also obviates the use of all nails, as in the old way. Hitherto it has been impossible to produce hand-sewed boots or shoes as cheaply as with pegs, screws, etc., but it is claimed that this can now be done by the new method.

B. F. Pratt of North Weymouth is a agent for "Manning's Illustrated Stock Doctor and live stock encyclopedia"—a valuable work which we shall review in our next issue.

Maine News.

Hop Bitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure forague, biliousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. Those afflicted should give them a fair trial, and will become thereby enthusiastic in the power of their curative qualities.—Portland Argus.

The Champion Hen Story Comes from Georgia. It is an incident of the burning of the freight depot at Brunswick. Just before the alarm of fire was given the hen in question jumped up from the ground to the outside sill of the window of the room in which the listing clerk was sleeping, and pecked on the glass. It is the opinion of the clerk, that she had seen the incendiary light a match and was trying to imitate the action in order to give warning of the fire.

THIS BALSAM has been before the public for a number of years, and I have lost no opportunity in telling the world of its value and the receipt has been tested to meet the different phases of disease for which I recommend it.

The Most Perfect Lung Remedy ever placed before the people.

Among the many certificates given me without solicitation is that of M. G. Jones, of 15 Boylston St. Boston, a well known medical man, who says: "I consider this compound to be the most perfect lung remedy for which I have ever seen, and the receipt has been tested to meet the different phases of disease for which I recommend it."

Total loss, $4,000. The town clerk reports 39 marriages, 78 births, and 77 deaths during 1880.

The report of the school committee treats of the founding of the common school, gives advice to teachers, speaks of the improvement in some of the school houses, recommends improvement of the grounds, the supplying of school apparatus, more frequent visits to the school room by parents, and citizens, (would it not be well for the members of the committee to take this latter recommendation home to themselves, and see if they could not know more about the schools or some of them at least, than they have known during the past year) condemns parents for allowing so much irregular attendance of children, and expresses gratitude that so much has been accomplished.

Hop Blitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure for ague, biliousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. Those afflicted should give them a fair trial, and will become thereby enthusiastic in the praise of their curative qualities.—Portland Argus.

STOCK DOCTOR.

Gen. B. F. Pratt, of this town, has a valuable work which he will offer to the public, entitled "Manding's Illustrated Stock Doctor and Live Stock Encyclopedia," embracing information which every owner of horses or cattle, sheep, swine and poultry, will be interested in. It is an epitome of 25 years' experience of the author as physician, veterinary surgeon and stock raiser, and presents to the world the fullest and most explicit work on live stock in health and disease that has ever been published. See the advertisement of Gen. Pratt for list of books for which he is agent.

The Prosecuting Attorney of New Albany, Ind., let his desire to participate in the New Orleans marauding fit get the better of his sense of official duty, and abandoned his work while a Court and Grand Jury were in session. selling land to the city, by laying land in the vicinity, or in some other way, to turn a dollar by the enterprise; and still another class talk for bumbleton that a park is needed for the benefit of the laboring classes, but a heap they care for the l. c. 6.

We should like a brown stone or white marble front house, elegantly furnished, on Beacon or Arlington street, or Commonwealth avenue—some people have them—but we can't say we need one because they have them. We won't say but we would be willingly make money out of the city as out of any one else, but we don't expect the city to "put up a job" for that purpose. And while we have the Common and Public Garden right in the heart of the city, never uncomfortably crowded by the laboring classes, except occasionally on some holiday, we shall content that we don't need any more park room for them.

LOCAL TOPICS.

DEBT REMOVAL.

We learn that the debt incurred in the improvements made upon the house of worship of the Union Religious Society in Boston, comparatively few may remember that formerly it was carried on mostly if not entirely north of State street—on Fulton and Clinton streets and that vicinity. There was one short street, from Fulton street to North street, every store on which was occupied by dealers in articles used to protect human soles, and which on that account was named Shoe and Leather street. The up-town movement induced every occupant of those stores to locate some where else, and the name of the street became such a perfect absurdity that it was changed several years ago to John street.

We do not recall exactly when the movement commenced, nor do we remember where the trade first located after leaving the north end, for at that time we had no interest in shoe and leather beyond the necessary expenditure to protect our own underlings.

Kilby, Milk and Pearl streets were in the possession of the wholesale dry goods trade, but the shoe and leather people gradually drove the dry goods firms out of Kilby and Pearl streets, and those streets, particularly the latter, were given up to the leather trade.

At that time Federal, Franklin, High and Summer streets were devoted almost exclusively to dwelling-houses. On the north side of Franklin street there were two stables, and—on the corner of Federal street—the old Boston or Federal street Theatre. On the south side, where the "Cathedral building" now stands, there was a large catholic church. That portion of Devonshire street from Franklin to Milk street was but a narrow passage way for pedestrians, known as Theatre Alley, the principal feature of which, as we recollect, was Mrs. Dunlap's snuff store, where the old lady assumed a very respectable fortune. Times have changed, for a person could hardly pay the rent anywhere in Boston at the present time, selling snuff.

Who is now known as a part of Devonshire street, between Summer and Franklin streets, was formerly Winthrop place, with the exception of a narrow passage alongside of the catholic church which was not open for the passing of teams. The houses on Winthrop place were occupied by some of the wealthiest of Boston's merchants.

The dry goods houses took almost entire possession of Federal, Franklin and Summer streets, of that portion of Devonshire street which was formerly Winthrop place and of Arch and Chauncy streets, while the boot, shoe and leather people seized Pearl street, a portion of Congress street, and, eventually, very nearly the whole of High street. After the great fire in November, 1872, the leather dealers were inclined to return to High street, but Mr. Denny, who owned the principal block of stores on the street, demanded such exorbitant rents that some of the largest houses in the trade sought other localities and much of the glory of Pearl street departed, though there is still a large business done there. At this time South street appears to be a favorite locality, and it will probably in a year or two rival High street in the number of its boot, shoe and leather dealers.

Following the example of New York business in Boston is constantly moving up town, which here means southward, and the time will come when narrow, crooked Essex street will have fine stores on both sides. To the west trade has invaded as far as it can go. Tremont street, between Winter and Boylston streets, is given up to trade, but the Common and Public Garden are barriers that will not be passed so long as there is a native-born Bostonian alive to protest against it.

THE PARK.

The matter of a grand park, which very much agitated the minds of the gentlemen who composed the board of Aldermen last year, has not, we believe, been brought up thus far this year, and one very good reason why it has not been brought up is, that ever since the first of January the members of the board have been striving to ascertain who are and who are not members of the board. The original counts by the ward officers were a disgrace to the city, but the various recounts by committees of the board of aldermen would put to shame a similar number of small boys from one of the public schools. However, barring the disgrace, while the aldermen have been wrangling over that knotty question they found no time to pass measures for squandering the money of the tax-burdened people or objects of at least very doubtful utility or necessity.

One of these objects is a park on a scale of size and magnificence to rival Central park in New York. Those who advocate this scheme are of three classes. One class wants a park merely because New York has one, and they don't like to be outdone by New York. Another class hope by more opportunity.

As is well known to the people of East Weymouth, the demand for house lots is increasing, and David Tucker, Esq., who has a most desirable tract east and south of his residence, between 1st and Pleasant street, containing some very choice sites for private residences or manufacturers, offers it for sale, as will be seen by his announcement in our columns. He has decided to do this from the fact that such lots are needed for public convenience, and though the view from his residence would be injured by the erection of buildings on the tract, he waives his personal convenience in behalf of the public good, and puts this estate on the market for the benefit of the public.

The County Commissioners have set the roads and fixed the lines of widening and straightening on the section of Commercial street which they recently viewed. The road will be widened, the line of the road will be laid out 40 feet wide from the point of commencement, and the east side J. E. Rice will lay out the new strip in front of his house, and between strip and the new road will be widened. On the west side the line will take a small slice from the rear of H. A. Turrell's place, a small general fence will be erected across the projection in front of Joseph Stevens' house, while a small amount will be taken at Lowell B. Bates' estate.

R. V. Merchant has purchased the valuable land adjacent to his more. The deceased Co. a suitable Wednesday, a crowd of his friends being present. The Weymouth Orchestra furnished some excellent music; the Chapel Quartette sang a few songs; the Weymouth Chorus, a singing group from Boston, favored the audience with a number of selections, his rendering of the well known "Gladys" episode from "The Minstrel Boy" being particularly much appreciated. A collation followed the entertainment, and after supper the tuning of violins and fiddles altered the company to the upper hall, where a portion of the guests indulged in a dance.

A little son of Mr. Benj. Shurtleff was chopping wood at a block near the end of a steam pipe at the printing office, yesterday afternoon, and a valve, being opened, caused the steam to escape, causing a scalding to the boy's person, severely scalding him about the head and legs. He was taken to the house of his mother, Mrs. John Hale, where he was suffering severely.

G. A. Cirelli.

Mr. Tuck advertised in another column that he had a valuable "Chest" which he had purchased in England, and which the ladies should not fail to examine.

Mr. Chas. S. Stowell has added on to his grocery store a commodious back apartment for the storage of grain and the like, and a small room above, which is also a suitable place for a shop, or a small residence for his own accommodation.

Mr. H. E. Everett, of this place, has the contract for the mason work.

We are pleased to note that Mr. John Welch, who met with a serious accident two months since, is again able to be out.

Mrs. Wm. Dally is having an addition made to her dwelling-house on Pleasant St. Contractor Hale is doing the work.
